

Here's how you can help support B+ and our hero, Nathan:

Follow this link to join the team:

<http://udancedelaware.info/teams/st-georges-technical-high-school/>

Then copy this message below and send it to TEN people who you think will donate to this cause.

I'm participating as a member of St. Georges Technical High School in the University of Delaware's UDance on March 11th. UDance is the largest student-run philanthropy at the University of Delaware. My organization is trying to raise $5000 this year! The money raised will go toward finding a cure for childhood cancer in partnership with The Andrew McDonough B+ (Be Positive) Foundation.

Please help me by making a contribution online.

1. Click here http://udancedelaware.info/donate/?donation_team_id=126&donation_team_member_id=0
2. Find my name and click on it.
3. Complete the online form and safely use your credit card to make a donation
4. You'll receive an online receipt for tax purposes

Thank you for helping us fight to give the kids a tomorrow. Please forward this to others so we can reach our goal!

The Andrew McDonough B+ Foundation (www.BePositive.org) was born out of tragedy after athlete and 'A' student Andrew McDonough passed away from complications of leukemia on July 14th 2007, at age 14. Andrew's blood type and the family's motto was, and continues to be, "B+"... "Be Positive." The overall goal of The B+ Foundation is to "Do Good." With your help, they will continue to achieve their primary objectives:

- Sponsor research to find cures for childhood cancers and advancements in chemotherapy. In 2009, the foundation awarded a $250,000 grant, and they will soon award another $250,000 research grant.
- Provide financial assistance for families of critically ill children around the country. To date, families have been helped in 47 states with over $500,000.
- Keep the B+ message alive! Andrew taught us to have fun, show affection, set goals, try our best, and keep our lives in perspective. We should all "Live Like Andrew."